

DigiLitEY Summer School 2017
Collaborative/Participatory Methodologies
And the Digital Practices of Young Children

11-13 June 2017 (La Cristalera-UAM)

<http://congresos.fuam.es/fuamcongresos/digilitey-summer-school-2017/home>

Presentation

This Summer School is organized under the DigiLitEY Cost Action (<http://digilitey.eu/>) and, continuing the work of the first summer school celebrated in 2016, focuses on exploring the place and contributions of collaborative and participatory methodologies in the study of the digital literacies and multimodal practices of young children. The 2017 Summer School will take place in La Cristalera (www.lacristalera.com) a residential research facility the Universidad Autónoma de Madrid runs in Miraflores de la Sierra, a mountain village in Northeast Madrid (Spain).

The summer school places special emphasis on hands-on and interactive sessions (which we call "Workshops") around particular research themes. This training event is aimed at advanced undergraduate students, postgraduate students and emergent researchers who are interested in understanding children's digital practices through participatory/qualitative/ethnographic research and will help participants gain an understanding of how to design/carry out feasible and ethically-grounded research with young children around their digital literacies, practices and experiences. The Summer School will also be an opportunity for the COST Action, particularly in connection to the interests of WG5, to take stock of emergent methodological and ethical concerns among researchers and professionals working with young children and digital technologies. This summer school is co-organized by Spanish members of the COST Action and UAM research group "Infancia Contemporánea" (www.infanciacontemporanea.com).

Program

10 June 2017 (Saturday Evening): Participants arrive and register at La Cristalera
21h. Dinner

Day 1: 11 June 2017 (Sunday)

Breakfast 8:00-9:30h

10-11h: Welcome / Presentation

11-13h: Plenary 1: Kim Kullman, The Open University (UK): Experimenting with the affective geographies of children and young people

13-14h: Lunch

14-17h: Workshop 1: Collaborative Research and Design with Children in Communities (Marta Morgade / Cristina Aliagas / Mitsuko Matsumoto / David Poveda)

17h. Coffee break - Informal talk

18-20h: Trainee Presentations (Short-Fuse Roundtable format)

21h: Dinner

Day 2: 12 June 2017 (Monday)

Breakfast 8:00-9:30am

10-12h: Plenary 2: Rosie Flewitt, UCL Institute of Education, University College London (UK): 'Whose voice is it? Conducting participatory research with children'

12-14h: "Brown bag lunch" with local Professionals (Mikel Elzaurdia + Emilio Ferreiro + To be Confirmed)

14-17h: Workshop 2: Problematizing the Mobilities of Digital Childhoods: Homes, Public Spaces and Schools? (Marta Morgade / Cristina Aliagas / Mitsuko Matsumoto / David Poveda)

Free Time

18-20h: Experimental Session - Mikel Elzaurdia and Karmele Mendoza: Libertarian pedagogies, play and digital worlds.

21h: Dinner

Day 3: 13 June 2017 (Tuesday)

Breakfast 8:00-9:30am

10:30-13:30h: Workshop 3: Ethical Dilemmas and Challenges in Research Young Children's Digital Practices

13:30-14h30h: Lunch

14:30-15:15h: "Town Hall" Conclusions / Conversation and Closing

15:30-19h: Field Visit (Downtown Madrid) MediaLab

22:00h: Evening/Night: Social Dinner (Back at La Cristalera)

14 June 2017 (Wednesday Morning): Participants leave La Cristalera

8:00-9:30h: Breakfast

10:00h: Shuttle to Airport